The first half of this tag, consisting almost solely of major chords (or variants thereof), is blissfully cheerful and Barbershop 101-type stuff. However when you get to the first "chord" note, an instant moody disposition takes over like a minor fiery laser-ball of judgement and death.

Also at the end, feel free to allow the tenor to shift between the major and minor third as many times as they want, or at least up until the point where it stops being funny....Happy tagging!
